

AROUND NEW MEXICO

Tuesday, September 20, 2011

Journal and wire

Belen Business Gets Solar Grant

Blue Skies Consulting, an aviation photography company in Belen, has landed more than $13,000 in federal funding to offset the $54,000 cost of installing a new photovoltaic solar power system at its hangar at the Alexander Municipal Airport.

The funding was made under the Rural Energy for America Program which helps farmers, ranchers and small businesses in rural America with loan and grant financial support to install renewable energy systems and to make energy efficiency improvements, USDA Rural Development said in a news release.